KODAK PROFESSIONAL EKTATHERM 8810 Color Profiles Available

- Input gathered from professional photographers and service providers to develop two color saturations: natural color and max color.
- The natural color profile provides modest color saturation with customer preferred flesh reproduction. Useful for scenes containing people and color.
- The max color profile has high color saturation while still maintaining customer preferred flesh reproduction. Great for images containing a lot of color and “pop.”
- These profiles allow tailoring of your color management workflow for a preferred color saturation and flesh tone reproduction based on your desired output preference.

Both these profiles, natural and max, allow you to control and choose color saturation depending on your preference while maintaining a natural and pleasing flesh tone.
